Character.

What would we do
Without the wealth
Of mortality recognized
By the adherents
Of The Master

Morals great as the mountains,
Strong as their rocks,
Pure as their springs,
Passionately righteous,
Yet caressingly gentle,
As are the sunrises.
Of a spring morn
Hitch your wagon
To this star,
Endeavor to improve on
What you are.

AVIATION NOT HIS OBJECT

Sweden Had His Own Reason for Rejecting Offer of That Particular Brand of Liquor.

Stephen Hunter Love of Salt Lake City, prominent in the beet sugar industry of Utah and a member of the food administration during the war, was in Washington for the sugar hearings before the finance committee of the senate. Mr. Love has a great gift for story telling, and is particularly fond of Swedish stories, his intonation of the Scandinavian dialect being well-nigh perfect.

It seems that recently a picturesque old Swede employed in one of the sugar mills thought to himself that he would not mind having a little drink or two after a particularly hard day's work. So he hid himself to a bootlegger of his acquaintance.

"You got any that squirrel whisky, Yohn?" he asked.

"No, I haven't Sven," replied the liquor merchant, "but I can give you a little old crow. How 'bout that?"

Sven thought for a moment; then he shook his head.

"Nay-da," he said, "Ay don't want to fly; Ay just want to hop a little."—

Health Habits for Children.

Health instruction and its result in the formation of habits, is the subject of a daily record of health habits for every child in the schools of Washington, D. C., according to the United States bureau of education. Blanks are marked after the morning daily inspection by the teacher. Each school day a mark is given for the pupil's observance of such habits as brushing the teeth, carrying a handkerchief, keeping a good posture, taking thirty minutes physical exercise. Thirteen health habits are noted. At the end of a month a rating is given to correspond with the daily record, and the sheet is sent home folded around the report card, to be signed by the parent and returned. It is expected thus to secure the co-operation of the home in inculcating health habits. Children showing extreme neglect are referred to the school nurse.
